

Alex Turek is the Director of Strategic Development at GRID Alternatives, a nonprofit who expands solar and other clean energy technology access to underinvested communities. Alex leads grant and commercial project development for the GRID Greater Los Angeles office. Prior to joining GRID, Alex was a Research Manager at the UCLA Luskin Center for Innovation, where he led the clean energy program including a project with the SBCCOG evaluating the barriers to EV adoption at multi-unit dwellings in the South Bay.